TOOLBANK DISASTER SERVICES: TOOLS THAT REBUILD COMMUNITIES

When disaster strikes, recovery starts with the right tools. ToolBank Disaster Services (TDS) provides critical equipment and expertise to help communities rebuild quickly and efficiently. With a rapid response time of 72 hours, TDS assesses both declared and non-declared disasters, ensuring that relief efforts begin as soon as possible. More than just delivering tools, TDS deploys a team member on the ground to listen, assess needs, and connect with local partners to maximize impact.

TDS plays a crucial role in both immediate disaster response and long-term recovery. By equipping nonprofit partners, volunteer groups, and national response organizations with the necessary tools, TDS accelerates rebuilding efforts and strengthens community resilience. These partnerships go beyond crisis moments, fostering long-term relationships that create shared resource spaces where volunteers drive recovery forward.

Through strategic collaboration, TDS helps communities not only rebuild but also prepare for future disasters. Whether it's a debris sled that aids in clearing debris or a generator that restores power to a relief center, every tool provided makes a tangible difference. By establishing trust and becoming a known presence in affected areas, ToolBank ensures that when the next disaster hits, communities already know who will be there to help.

When everything is lost, a single tool can make a world of difference — and ToolBank Disaster Services is there to provide it.
